London: JOHN CHAPMAN, 142, Strand.

THE SANITARY JOURNAL, a new bi-weekly periodical, price 2d.

In the beginning of January 1852 (and continued on the 1st and 15th of every month) it is intended to publish the first number of this Periodical, devoted almost exclusively to Sanitary intelligence, and designed to watch over and assist the progress of the Sanitary movement generally.

It is intended to be a complete record of passing events, a cyclopædia of news, interesting even to times afar off—a faithful interpreter of the workings of Sanitary Bodies, Local Boards of Health, &c., a museum of designs and plans for the habitations of the operative classes, a publisher of those conveniences for the same which are constantly being secured from piracy by letters patent, with ample and full notices of those most suited for universal adoption, a staunch and unflinching advocate for reform in the arrangement of town and country dwellings, as well as social, physical, and moral amelioration; in short, it is intended to be a complete exponent of Sanitary feeling throughout the country, and a stern opponent of any nuisance that may creep in to corrupt or turn aside its legitimate workings.

As such, the proprietors look with confidence to the philanthropic and benevolent for support, by communications and hints, as well as by subscribers to the publication.

The pages of the "Sanitary Journal" will be occasionally illustrated with Engravings, and will have general articles from the pens of well known literary gentlemen. The size of the work will be demy quarto, and it will be printed in bold type upon good paper. Specimens of the first number will be sent upon receipt of five postage stamps.

To "Advertisers," the "Sanitary Journal" offers a most excellent medium, especially to those who are desirous of bringing their inventions directly before the parties more especially interested in their success, and the publishers will look upon the aggregate bulk of this portion, as betokening the entire success of the work. They propose to lay the parts upon the tables of most of the Institutions throughout the land, and thus secure a most extensive perusal, in addition to their already ascertained good private circulation. It is presumed, that advertisements thus prominently brought before the public would not fail to be profitably applied.

All Advertisements for the First Number should be sent by the 27th of December, and five days before day of publication, afterwards.

All communications to be addressed to the Editor, care of Mr. J. WEALE (the publisher), 59, High Holborn.

NEW EDITION, ENLARGED AND IMPROVED.

The Second Edition, in One vol., price 21s. 6d., cloth,

GWILT'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA of ARCHITECTURE; Historical, Theoretical, and Practical. Illustrated with more than One Thousand Engravings on Wood.

Second Edition; with a Supplement on Gothic Architecture.

"This elaborate and learned work constitutes a complete body of architecture, and gives such information concerning its history, theory, and practice, as students and practitioners should acquire, and which the amateur and general reader may wish to refer to."—Spectator.

 The Supplement may be had separately, in 8vo., with above Eighty Wood Engravings, price 5s., cloth.
